

Dan Namingha

Dan Namingha was born in Arizona and grew up with his mother on the Hopi Reservation. His great-great-grandmother was Nampeyo, who crafted clay pots with ancient designs. Namingha is also a painter and a sculptor, and his work depicts the connection between the physical and spirit world.

“Tranquility”

“South Butte”

Namingha uses an abstract style and bright colors to capture the spirituality of his culture. Color “Tranquility” and “South Butte” with bright colors, and then try to create your own abstract mountain painting!
