

National Fried Chicken Day

Southern fried chicken dates back to the 1830's when American slaves combined Scottish and West African techniques for preparing chicken. Since then, it has become an American staple dish and is often served with a variety of side dishes such as biscuits, mashed potatoes, green beans, or mac and cheese.

Color the plate below and add two of your favorite side dishes!

