

Pennsylvania Beverage: Birch Beer

Birch beer is a classic Pennsylvania beverage similar to root beer but derived from birch sap and bark rather than sassafras. The birch gives it its distinctive herbal and minty flavor. One of the most popular brands is Reading Draft, which offers a variety of flavors including brown, red, and clear. Birch beer is enjoyed as a refreshing drink, especially during the summer months, and represents an important part of Pennsylvania's beverage history.

Directions: Color in and cut out birch beer and bark. Fold bark into a cylinder.
