

Pennsylvania State Flower: Mountain Laurel

The Pennsylvania state flower is the Mountain Laurel, chosen in 1933 by Gifford Pinchot. Flowers are a crucial part of ecology, and there are many places where you can witness the beauty of Pennsylvania's local plant life. It is in bloom from May through June and is often found on rocky hilltops.

Directions: Color in and cut out

